Associate or Full Professor
Division Chief of Blood & Marrow Transplantation
Department of Medicine

The Department of Medicine at Stanford University is recruiting a Chief for the Division of Blood and Marrow Transplantation to lead the research, clinical, and educational activities of the Division. The faculty position is at the Associate Professor or Professor level in the Medical Center Line or the University Tenure Line. The predominant criterion for appointment in the University Tenure Line is a major commitment to research and teaching. The major criteria for appointment for faculty in the Medical Center Line shall be excellence in the overall mix of clinical care or programmatic development, clinical teaching, scholarly activity that advances clinical medicine, and institutional service appropriate to the programmatic need the individual is expected to fulfill. Faculty rank will be determined by the qualifications and experience of the successful candidate.

The successful candidate should be an accomplished physician investigator with a national/international reputation. Candidates should be Board Certified in Medical Oncology and/or Hematology. Our goal is to continue to develop a premier Division of Blood and Marrow Transplantation working closely with the Stanford Cancer Institute. The Chief will be expected to recruit additional faculty to support both laboratory and clinical research and to expand the clinical practice of the faculty. The Chief is expected to strengthen the currently highly competitive fellowship program and increase its focus on the research opportunities so prevalent at Stanford. The Division of BMT benefits from an outstanding scientific and clinical environment at Stanford, including active collaborations with the basic science departments and the Stanford Institutes, including the Stem Cell and the Cancer Institutes.

Interested candidates should submit their curriculum vitae, a brief letter outlining their interests and the names of three references to:
